DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/24/09 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 21-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yan et al. (US 2002/0152116; hereinafter "Yan").

Re claim 21 :Yan teaches a method comprising steps of: providing an authorized user of a credit card issued by a service provider ("... provide an authorized card holder of a credit card" paragraph 31, lines 1-3); the authorized user incurring debt on the credit card ("... provide an authorized card holder of a credit card, who incurs debts on or with the card..." paragraph 31, lines 1-6); and for a predetermined amount of debt incurred by the authorized user on the credit card, the service provider submitting an entry into a sweepstakes on behalf of the authorized user ("... provide an authorized card holder of a credit card, who incurs debts on or with the card, with an award (i. e. dynamically generated rebate, fixed rebate) that itself represents an opportunity, on the basis of the debts incurred with the credit card ... The second mode comprises awarding a deep sweepstake rebate wherein a transaction or an account is dynamically selected for a fixed discount percent as designated by the sponsoring card issuer..." paragraphs 31 and 30-32). The sweepstakes comprise a contest in which a discount is provided on future transactions (this is considered unrelated to debt incurred) (see par. 0040). Furthermore, the structure of Yan is capable performing the method steps of providing prizes unrelated to debt incurred by entering authorized users into plurality of sweepstakes. The prior art anticipates the claim.

Re claim 22: Yan teaches the method further comprising conducting a drawing from entries of the sweepstakes, wherein the entry of the authorized user is one of the entries (see paragraph 7).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 23 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yan in view of Shurling et al. (US 6,009,415; hereinafter "Shurling"). The teachings of Yan have been discussed above.

Yan fails to teach the steps of providing an authorized user of a credit card issued by a service provider; the authorized user referring a first/new customer to the service provider for credit card services; the first/new customer submitting/enrolling an application for credit card services to the service provider; the service provider receiving, processing and approving the application and issuing a credit card to the first customer establishing a first referred authorized user of a credit card; and in consideration therefore to the authorized user the service provider issuing valuable consideration to the authorized user.

Shurling teaches a method comprising steps of: providing an authorized user (24 in fig. 1) of a credit card issued by a service provider (col. 1, lines 6-27; col. 4, lines 20-42); the authorized user referring a first/new customer to the service provider for credit card services (col. 1, lines 6-27; col. 4, lines 20-42); the first/new customer submitting/enrolling an application for credit card services to the service provider (col. 7, lines 48-65); the service provider receiving, processing and approving the application and issuing a credit card to the first customer establishing a first referred authorized user of a credit card; and in consideration therefore to the authorized user the service provider issuing valuable consideration (i.e., Incentive Rewards) to the authorized user (abstract; col. 2, line 46 through col. 3, line 11; col. 4, lines 6-20).

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the steps of referring new customer to the service provider as taught by Shurling to the teachings of Yan in order to apply/grant the sweepstake incentives (i.e., entering sweepstake entry) to the referring customer encouraging customer to refer new customer(s) to increase the chance to win.

6. Claims 24 and 26-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yan as modified by Shurling as applied to claim 23 above, and further in view of Selgas et al. (US 6,571,290; hereinafter "Selgas"). The teachings of Yan as modified by Shurling have been discussed above.

Although, Shurling teaches the step of the first/new customer submitting an application for credit card services to the service provider (col. 7, lines 48-65); and other customers which a specific customer may refer to the bank (col. 11, lines 41-45); Yan as modified by Shurling fails to teach or fairly suggest the first customer designating the authorized user as a referring party. Selgas teaches the step of the user 110 enters registration information about the user 110 and Referral Information if available (col. 15, lines 58-65), which serves as the first customer designating the authorized user as a referring party.

It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the first customer designating the authorized user as a referring party as taught by Selgas to the teachings of Yan as modified by Shurling in order to provide a useful option for the new user to designate the referring party. Such modification would have been an obvious expedient to an artisan of ordinary skill in the art in order to provide a way for new use to designate the referring party.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 06/24/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. (see examiner remarks).

REMARKS:

In response to applicant's argument that Yan does not disclose “a predetermine amount of dept incurred ...”, the examiner respectfully disagrees. while Yan does not teach a specific amount, line $20.00, but teaches providing rebates based on debt incurred, wherein the predetermined amount could be any amount greater than zero. Furthermore, the claims do not claim a specific amount. The applicant's argument is not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Note

8. Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings of the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant in preparing responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.
